

The home page is a place where you can find updates and important information from me and TUSD.

READING

The reading tab contains the following:

Imagine Learning: Students are very familiar with the online reading assessment program. This task should be done completely independently. However, some students may need assistance logging on. This task should be independent because I can monitor their independent reading progress.

IXL Language Arts: This is a website that is where students can practice appropriate level reading skills. You may support your child with this task.

Interactive reading games: Students can click this link and are offered to play a variety of reading interactive games. This is a great tool for students who need a little break, or are losing focus.

MATH TAB

Prodigy and Zearn: These are both interactive math assessments which should be done independently. All they have to do is log on. This is another way for me to record math progress and to collect data.

Cool math and IXL math: These are both interactive educational learning opportunities to practice from the list of math skills to practice. Cool math is a fun math practice.

Math worksheet generator: This website allows you to create your own worksheets. You may choose what math skills you would like your child to choose from. (If you need help printing them let me know)

WRITING TAB

Typing.com and Dance Mat typing: These are great websites for your child to practice letter recognition and typing letter skills.

Handwriting worksheet (build your own): This is where you can enter in any sentence, words, letters, or names and the program will enter it in to a writing worksheet.

Daily Oral Language or DOLs: This is for students who need to practice sentence correcting, or convention skills.

Writing Prompts: This is for students who need to work on creating sentences or paragraphs. The topics are already made by the student. The student will answer the prompt on a separate piece of paper.

SOCIAL SKILLS TAB:

This tab is available to support behaviors and social skills. Many of the links and webpages are connected to what we would use in the classroom. I included a great website called Conscious Discipline. This is a GREAT resource for you to use at home.

ART TAB:

This tab is my personal favorite. The art page has 3 art project options. They will change weekly and I gave three different options. These projects are perfect for completing at home.

ZOOM TAB:

This tab is dedicated to the app we will use for video contact, tutoring and classroom discussions. I will be emailing the invitations for all classroom discussions to all parent's emails. We may start a practice zoom meeting later in the week. If you need help setting up Zoom, please contact me.

General Info:

Please take a day or two to review the website. I will be sending out the individual emails later in the week. My primary communication will be email and text.
